SABER Launches Line of Ready-To-Assemble Outdoor Kitchen Islands

COLUMBUS, GA – January 2016 - Saber Grills, LLC has recently unveiled a new line of ready-to-assemble outdoor kitchen islands. Constructed out of heavy-duty powder-coated aluminum with Saber’s all-stainless steel outdoor kitchen components, the new SABER EZ Outdoor Kitchen islands are available in two different configurations.

The SABER EZ Outdoor Kitchen I Series includes a built-in three-burner infrared gas grill, an 18,000 BTU dual-burner side burner, a drop-in ice chest and a double access door under the grill (MSRP $5,999.99). The SABER EZ Outdoor Kitchen R Series includes a built-in three-burner infrared gas grill, an 18,000 BTU dual-burner side burner, a 4.1 cu ft outdoor rated stainless refrigerator, a double drawer/door combination and an enclosed paper towel holder (MSRP $6,999.99).

The islands are constructed out of a non-corrosive, heavy-duty aluminum that is powder coated in two color combinations: a Silver Vein top and cabinet, or a Copper Vein top and Sandy Shore cabinet. All of the components are made of SABER’s high grade 304 stainless steel including enclosures. The islands were manufactured for easy set up: they come with a pre-wired GFCI outlet, use one common fastener, weigh less than 150 pounds without the components, and can be assembled in less than one hour.

“Outdoor kitchens continue to grow in popularity but installing one with well-crafted, premium components can be cost-prohibitive or too time-intensive for some homeowners,” said Gary Butler, general manager, Saber Grills, LLC. “This is an easy, attainable solution that doesn’t sacrifice quality materials or cooking performance. Our goal was to manufacture a better option than what currently exists today – in terms of price, versatility and construction.”

SABER’s EZ Outdoor Kitchens were manufactured to be the most versatile islands on the market: They are made of aluminum rather than stucco or stone so they can be used on wooden decks, and can be moved if you change residences or your outdoor area. They are equipped with the most popular components used in large, custom-designed outdoor kitchens. And at seven feet long, the islands will fit in a variety of spaces. Like all SABER grills, the EZ Outdoor Kitchens will be sold through outdoor specialty retailers.
